Dear Mr. Donnelly:

On November 6-7, 1987 the Federalist Society will hold a conference on "Foreign Affairs and the Constitution: The Roles of Congress, the President, and the Courts." We would like to encourage you and your staff to attend the conference.

Recent developments have pointed out the need for a thorough examination of the constitutional framework in which the United States conducts its foreign policy. This conference will bring together many of the brightest legal and foreign policy minds of our day as speakers, panelists, and conference participants. The unique format for the conference -- with considerable time for question and answer exchanges with the panelists -- provides an opportunity for rigorous discussion. The speakers represent a diverse range of viewpoints and backgrounds. It is our hope that a general consensus will emerge from the conference on some of the fundamental aspects of our conduct of foreign policy.

To acquaint you with the program and the participants, we have enclosed a brochure outlining the conference activities. In addition to the speakers listed, Judge Ralph Winter, Counsel to the President A.B. Culvahouse, Professor Michael Tigar of Texas and Assistant Attorney General Charles Cooper have accepted invitations to join the other distinguished members of the program (unfortunately one speaker mentioned in the brochure, Griffin Bell, has had to cancel).

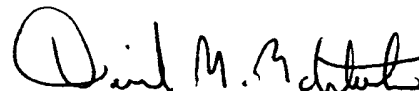

The conference will be at the Grand Hyatt Washington, 1000 H Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20001. The Society is discounting the registration fee to $25.00 for government employees.

We are sure you will agree the subject of this event is of great national importance. We hope you and your staff will join us.

Sincerely,

Lee S. Liberman
